Issued by the Met Office

Today: On Friday, air pollution levels are forecast to be generally Low, although very isolated pockets of Moderate pollution may develop near busy roads and urban centres.

Tomorrow: Similarly, Saturday should also see mainly Low levels of air pollution. However, increased bonfire and firework activity at this time of year could see isolated areas of Moderate pollution develop.

Outlook: As above, the period Sunday to Tuesday should see mainly Low levels of air pollution, but isolated pockets of Moderate pollution can't be ruled out given the ongoing festivities.
